

Report Highlights

Why DLA Performed This Audit

An audit of Alaska's CARES Act Small Business Relief Program was requested to determine whether all eligible businesses were fairly treated and whether the process for procuring program operators complied with procurement laws. Additionally, the audit lists all grants distributed.

What the Legislative Auditor Recommends

1. DCCED's commissioner should work toward recovering the unallowable grant payments identified in this audit.
2. Alaska Industrial Development and Export Authority's (AIDEA) executive director should ensure the chief procurement officer follows procurement procedures and adequate documentation is maintained.

A Special Review of the Department of Commerce, Community, and Economic Development (DCCED), Alaska Coronavirus Aid, Relief, and Economic Security (CARES) Act Small Business Relief Program

May 9, 2022

Audit Control Number 08-30103-22

REPORT CONCLUSIONS

The audit concluded that the Small Business Relief Program disbursed approximately $282 million of CARES Act funds through the issuance of 5,754 grants; however, the distribution rate of grant funds fell far short of expectations. The State expected to distribute $150 million per month, yet only $18 million was distributed by the end of the program's second month. Despite a federal extension to December 2021, authorization for the program lapsed at the end of June 30, 2021, at which point $823,000 of funds were still available and 669 grant applications were unprocessed. DCCED management was unable to explain why all of the funds were not awarded, because key decision makers were no longer employed by DCCED.

The program's initial eligibility criteria was widely criticized as being too restrictive. Pressure to reach a larger number of Alaskan businesses and fully utilize available funding led DCCED's commissioner to expand eligibility multiple times. The most significant modifications expanded eligibility to include commercial fishermen, allowed applicants to apply for both the Small Business Relief Program and federal CARES Act loan programs, and opened the program to businesses that served as secondary sources of income.

The audit found the grant application processing time was much slower than expected, partly due to the program design and partly due to the rate applications were deemed incomplete or inaccurate. Several program requirements were inconsistently considered and/or enforced by program operators. Some of the inconsistencies were the result of DCCED commissioner directives designed to speed up the approval process, some were the result of appeal decisions that were not applied to all applicants, while others were rooted in different interpretations by operators or between staff of the same operator.

Results of testing found a high rate of unallowable grant awards. Auditors tested 155 grants and identified at least one error for 39 percent of the grants tested. The program design increased the risk of unallowable grants and post-payment controls were ineffective. In total, 13 percent of the grant amounts tested were unallowable. The audit did not find evidence that grants were awarded in violation of the State's ethics laws.

AIDEA staff generally followed procurement regulations; however, the procurement process discouraged potential bidders. Changes to the program's design and eligibility criteria led to numerous request for proposal amendments, which delayed procurement and proved frustrating for potential bidders. A lawsuit that challenged how the program was authorized and designed also delayed procurement.

The audit reviews the CARES Act Small Business Relief Program to determine whether eligible businesses were fairly treated and whether the process for procuring program operators complied with procurement laws. Additionally, the audit lists all grant awards distributed to businesses.

The audit was conducted in accordance with generally accepted government auditing standards. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain sufficient, appropriate evidence to provide a reasonable basis for our findings and conclusions based on our audit objectives. We believe that the evidence obtained provides a reasonable basis for our findings and conclusions based on our audit objectives. Fieldwork procedures utilized in the course of developing the findings and recommendations presented in this report are summarized in the Objectives, Scope, and Methodology section.

ORGANIZATION AND FUNCTION

Department of Commerce, Community, and Economic Development (DCCED)

According to DCCED’s website, the department’s mission is to “promote a healthy economy, strong communities, and protect consumers in Alaska.” To carry out its mission, the department is organized into the following seven divisions:

1. Commissioner’s Office
2. Administrative Services
3. Banking and Securities
4. Community and Regional Affairs
5. Corporations, Business and Professional Licensing
6. Economic Development
7. Insurance

Five public corporations are organizationally located within DCCED, including AIDEA.

Alaska Industrial Development and Export Authority (AIDEA)

Per AS 44.88.070, the purpose of AIDEA is to promote, develop, and advance the general prosperity and economic welfare of the people of the state, to relieve problems of unemployment, and to create additional employment. AIDEA is governed by a seven-member board, including five public members appointed by the governor and the commissioners from the Department of Revenue and DCCED (or their designees).

BACKGROUND INFORMATION

In response to the coronavirus disease 2019 (COVID-19) pandemic, the United States Congress passed the Coronavirus Aid, Relief, and Economic Security (CARES) Act, a $2.2 trillion economic stimulus bill signed into law on March 27, 2020. The Alaska CARES Act included a $150 billion Coronavirus Relief Fund (CRF) to help state, tribal, and local governments meet virus related costs. The State of Alaska received the minimum CRF distribution of $1.25 billion.

Of the $1.25 billion, $290 million was appropriated to the Department of Commerce, Community, and Economic Development (DCCED) for a Small Business Relief Program. The program was administered by DCCED using the Alaska Industrial Development and Export Authority (AIDEA) as a conduit for providing grant funding to small businesses suffering financially from the pandemic. DCCED believed it was necessary to procure the assistance of a third-party organization to effectively operate the program, since neither DCCED nor AIDEA had the staff and systems necessary to process the high volume of anticipated applications.

AIDEA’s timeline to procure program operators extended three and a half months.

The State Procurement Code¹ directs AIDEA to follow its own procurement regulations, which are codified in State regulation 3 AAC 100. AIDEA’s procurement rules are similar to the State’s procurement code in that competitive procurement is required in most instances. To solicit a program operator to evaluate eligibility for the Small Business Relief Program and approve awards, AIDEA issued a request for proposal (RFP) on April 18, 2020. Due to the public health emergency, AIDEA justified using an alternate procurement timeline and reduced the standard public notice from 21 days to seven days.

Although AIDEA took steps to expedite procurement, the process took approximately three and a half months to complete. Changes to the program’s design and eligibility criteria led to numerous RFP amendments, which extended the procurement period. Additionally, procurement was delayed by a lawsuit that challenged how the program was authorized and DCCED’s ability to alter eligibility criteria. Ultimately, AIDEA was successful at procuring two program operators: Credit Union 1 (CU1) and the Juneau Economic Development Council (JEDC). The contract with CU1 was signed May 29, 2020, and the contract with JEDC was signed August 11, 2020. Exhibit 1 summarizes the procurement timeline.

AIDEA procured temporary personnel to help process grant applications.

The processing of grant applications by program operators proved more time-consuming than anticipated. In response, DCCED and AIDEA looked for additional resources to help process the backlog of applications. AIDEA hired temporary personnel to internally process grant applications. DCCED utilized employees from the Division of Economic Development and the Division of Community and Regional Affairs to process grant applications.

In accordance with its procurement regulations, AIDEA used the small procurement method to solicit for temporary personnel. The small procurement regulations were applicable for services that were expected to cost more than $50,000, but not more than $100,000.

At the time the Small Business Relief grant program was authorized, AIDEA was already using temporary personnel for answering multi-line phones, greeting visitors, and other clerical duties. When AIDEA accepted responsibility for administering the program, it expanded the temporary personnel's duties to include grant processing and its contract with the temporary personnel agency, AKHIRE, was expanded accordingly. AIDEA issued a request for quotation in August 2020 to procure additional personnel to process grants. AKHIRE was the successful bidder and a purchase order to approve payment was issued in August 2020.

Program eligibility expanded significantly during the application period.

The Small Business Relief Program was initially designed to be an emergency loan program made available to businesses that were not eligible under the federal CARES Act Payroll Protection Program (PPP). After AIDEA published its RFP on April 18, 2020, to solicit a financial institution to administer the loan program, it was determined that the federal CARES Act funding could not be used for direct loans. By the time the governor's Office of Management and Budget requested legislative authorization on May 11, 2020, the program had been redesigned to issue grants to Alaskan businesses with 50 or fewer employees that were impacted by the COVID-19 public health emergency.

To be eligible, businesses could not have received a federal PPP loan, economic injury disaster loan, or other funding from federal CARES Act programs. Grants were only allowed to be used for COVID-19 emergency related expenses, including expenses that would be incurred up to eight weeks from the application date. Grant amounts for expenses that could not be verified or funded by controlled disbursement were capped at 25 percent of the total grant award. Additionally, businesses that were secondary sources of income were not eligible (see Exhibit 2).

Exhibit 2

Alaska CARES Act Small Business Relief Program Eligibility Criteria as of May 11, 2020

Any small business licensed to do business in the state meeting the following criteria:

- Applicant was an eligible business when the public health disaster emergency declaration was issued by the governor on March 11, 2020;
- Businesses with 50 full-time equivalent employees or less as of March 11, 2020; and
- Applicant was excluded or did not qualify, or otherwise unable to obtain funding from the Small Business Association (SBA) PPP, SBA Economic Injury Disaster Loan (EIDL), or other federal funding programs under the CARES Act.

Applicants are the eligible, licensed Alaska businesses affected by the COVID-19 health emergency. Each applicant may only make one application for funding with a maximum of $100,000 and a minimum of $5,000.

Alaska businesses having common ownership or member interests are not limited to apply or capped in aggregate funding due to common ownership or member interests. Funding is based upon the actual expenses incurred by the business due to the crisis, subject to the maximum funding amount per business applicant.

Businesses that are not eligible applicants include:

- Marijuana related businesses (due to program operator institutional restrictions);
- Secondary income sources;
- Out-of-state businesses;
- Businesses with more than 50 full-time equivalent employees;
- Businesses that have received funding or have an approved application for SBA's PPP or EIDL loan program; and
- Businesses that have filed for bankruptcy.

Source: RPL 08-2020-0251, Approved May 11, 2020; House Bill 313 passed and signed by the governor ratified the RPL May 21, 2020.

AIDEA’s online portal helped expedite the grant application process.

Based on feedback from small businesses, the legislature, and the general public, DCCED clarified and changed the eligibility requirements multiple times during the application period, which spanned June 1, 2020, through September 15, 2020. The most significant modifications expanded eligibility to include commercial fishermen, businesses that received a federal CARES Act loan, and businesses that served as sources of secondary income. Appendix A summarizes changes to the program’s eligibility criteria.

The first program operator, CU1, began accepting applications on June 1, 2020. Grant applications with supporting documents were mailed, delivered in person, or submitted through CU1’s email/portal system. Effective August 6, 2020, applications were required to be submitted through AIDEA’s new online portal. From that point, grant applications received by AIDEA via its central portal were distributed to program operators for processing according to the agencies’ existing workload and expertise. The portal officially closed September 15, 2020; however, program operators continued to process applications already received or appealed through December 2020 with a few grants awarded in 2021.

REPORT CONCLUSIONS

An audit of Alaska's Coronavirus Aid, Relief, and Economic Security (CARES) Act Small Business Relief Program was requested to determine whether all eligible businesses were fairly treated and whether the process for procuring program operators complied with procurement laws. Additionally, the audit was requested to report detail grant distribution information.

The audit concluded that the Small Business Relief Program disbursed approximately $282 million of CARES Act funds through the issuance of 5,754 grants. The distribution rate of grant funds fell far short of expectations. The State expected to distribute $150 million per month, yet only $18 million was distributed by the end of the program's second month. Despite a federal extension to December 2021, authorization for the program lapsed at the end of June 30, 2021, at which point $823,000 of funds were still available and 669 grant applications were unprocessed. Department of Commerce, Community, and Economic Development (DCCED) management was unable to explain why all of the funds were not awarded, because key decision makers were no longer employed by DCCED.

The program's initial eligibility criteria was widely criticized as being too restrictive. Pressure to reach a larger number of Alaskan businesses and fully utilize available funding led the DCCED commissioner to expand eligibility multiple times. The most significant modifications expanded eligibility to include commercial fishermen, allowed applicants to apply for both the Small Business Relief Program and federal CARES Act loan programs, and opened the program to businesses that served as secondary sources of income.

The audit found the grant application processing time was much slower than expected, partly due to the program design and partly due to the rate applications were deemed incomplete or inaccurate. Several program requirements were inconsistently considered and/or enforced by program operators. Some of the inconsistencies were the result of DCCED commissioner directives designed to speed up the approval process, some were the result of appeal decisions that were not applied to all applicants, while others were rooted in different interpretations by operators or between staff of the same operator.

Results of testing found a high rate of unallowable grant awards. Auditors tested 155 grants and identified at least one error for 39 percent of the grants tested. The program's design increased the risk of unallowable grants and post-payment controls were ineffective. In total, 13 percent of the grant amounts tested were unallowable. The audit did not find evidence that grants were awarded in violation of the State's ethics laws.

Alaska Industrial Development Authority (AIDEA) staff generally followed procurement regulations; however, the procurement process discouraged potential bidders. Changes to the program's design and eligibility criteria led to numerous request for proposal (RFP) amendments, which delayed procurement and proved frustrating for potential bidders. A lawsuit that challenged how the program was authorized and designed also delayed procurement.

Detailed conclusions are listed below.

Approximately $282 million was disbursed through the issuance of 5,754 grants.

Of the $290 million of funding allocated for the Small Business Relief Program, approximately $282 million or 97 percent was disbursed through the issuance of 5,754 grants to businesses and commercial fishermen. The commercial fishing industry received the highest amount of grant funds (approximately $79 million or 28 percent) and the accommodation and food industry received the second highest (approximately $34.6 million or 12.3 percent). The audit identified approximately $19 million, or 6 percent of the funds, was disbursed to commercial fishermen with out-of-state mailing or physical addresses. Appendix B summarizes the amount distributed by industry. A total of 1,021 applications were denied or rejected for not meeting requirements.

The program was designed to distribute at least 20 percent to rural communities. Rural communities were defined as communities with a population of 5,000 or less. Per AIDEA’s database, 45 percent of the funds were distributed to rural communities based on applicants’ physical business addresses.

Most of the grant funds were disbursed by the Juneau Economic Development Council (JEDC), AIDEA’s program operator hired early August 2020. AIDEA’s other program operator, Credit Union 1 (CU1), hired May 29, 2020, disbursed the second highest amount, followed closely by DCCED. Most grants for commercial fishermen were processed by DCCED staff. Exhibit 3 lists the number of grants issued and funds disbursed by processing entity.

Appendix C provides a listing of all Small Business Relief grants by business name.

The program terminated with 669 unprocessed applications and $823,000 of available funding.

At the end of FY 21, when authorization for the program lapsed, there were 669 unprocessed applications that requested approximately $52.1 million. At that point, $823,000 of funding was still available. The federal deadline for using CARES Act funding was initially December 31, 2020; however, that deadline was extended by one year.

DCCED did not seek additional legislative authority to expend the remaining funds during FY 22. Instead, the funds were transferred to the Unemployment Compensation Fund. Due to the turnover of key positions, DCCED management was unable to explain why efforts were not made to use all available federal funding for small business relief.

Approximately $7 million, or 3 percent of the program funds, was used to pay for program administration, including State employee staff time, information technology services, compliance reviews, contractor assistance, and other administrative expenses. Costs included payments to Alaska Regional Development Organizations (ARDORS) to provide technical assistance to small businesses, payments to program operators (CU1 and JEDC), and payments to AIDEA’s temporary personnel agency, AKHIRE. Exhibit 4 summarizes the administrative expenditures by entity.

Pressure to reach a larger number of businesses and fully utilize available funding led DCCED’s commissioner to expand eligibility multiple times.

The program operator, CU1, began accepting and processing hardcopy grant applications on June 1, 2020, based on the initial eligibility criteria described in the Background Information section of this audit. Within approximately two weeks, the DCCED commissioner considered expanding eligibility in response to criticism that eligibility criteria was too stringent. The commissioner’s ability to change eligibility was unclear since the program, including its eligibility criteria, was approved by the Legislative Budget and Audit Committee and later ratified by the full legislature. After consultation with the Department of Law, DCCED management determined that the commissioner had the ability to adjust eligibility criteria if a change was consistent with the overall purpose of the program and legislative history. DCCED’s commissioner moved forward to expand eligibility to include:

- businesses that received less than $5,000 of federal payroll protection program (PPP) loans, economic injury disaster loans (EIDL), or other loans received indirectly through municipal relief programs; and
- nonprofit organizations classified under Internal Revenue Service code 501(c)(6) (primarily trade and industry associations).

The commissioner’s plan to expand eligibility was delayed by a lawsuit that challenged DCCED’s authority to change eligibility. The court ruled on July 10, 2020, that DCCED could go forward with eligibility revisions. DCCED’s commissioner announced on July 14, 2020, that, in addition to making the changes noted above, eligibility would be further expanded to include commercial fishermen with limited entry permits. In making the announcement, the commissioner noted that the program was not meeting the needs of the commercial fishermen that operated with a professional license rather than a business license. Due to delays in procuring another program operator and building an electronic application portal, the new eligibility requirements were made effective August 6, 2020. At that date there was approximately $165 million of funding available, taking into consideration the amount of grant funds requested.

The DCCED commissioner pursued more significant eligibility changes in late August 2020 by seeking approval from the Legislative Budget and Audit Committee to expand eligibility to include:

- businesses that received any amount of PPP loans or economic injury disaster loans; and
- businesses that served as secondary sources of income.

The Legislative Budget and Audit Committee approved the changes on August 27, 2020, which became effective August 31, 2020. Within two days requests for funding exceeded the amount available, and DCCED published a notice on its website that it was unlikely future applications would be funded. The portal remained open another two weeks and formally closed September 15, 2020. Exhibit 5 summarizes the application activity as of the key dates discussed in this section.

* Note: over 1,300 applicants requested more than the maximum amount of $100,000.

 Amount available is $280.5 million, which is the total appropriated less administrative costs.

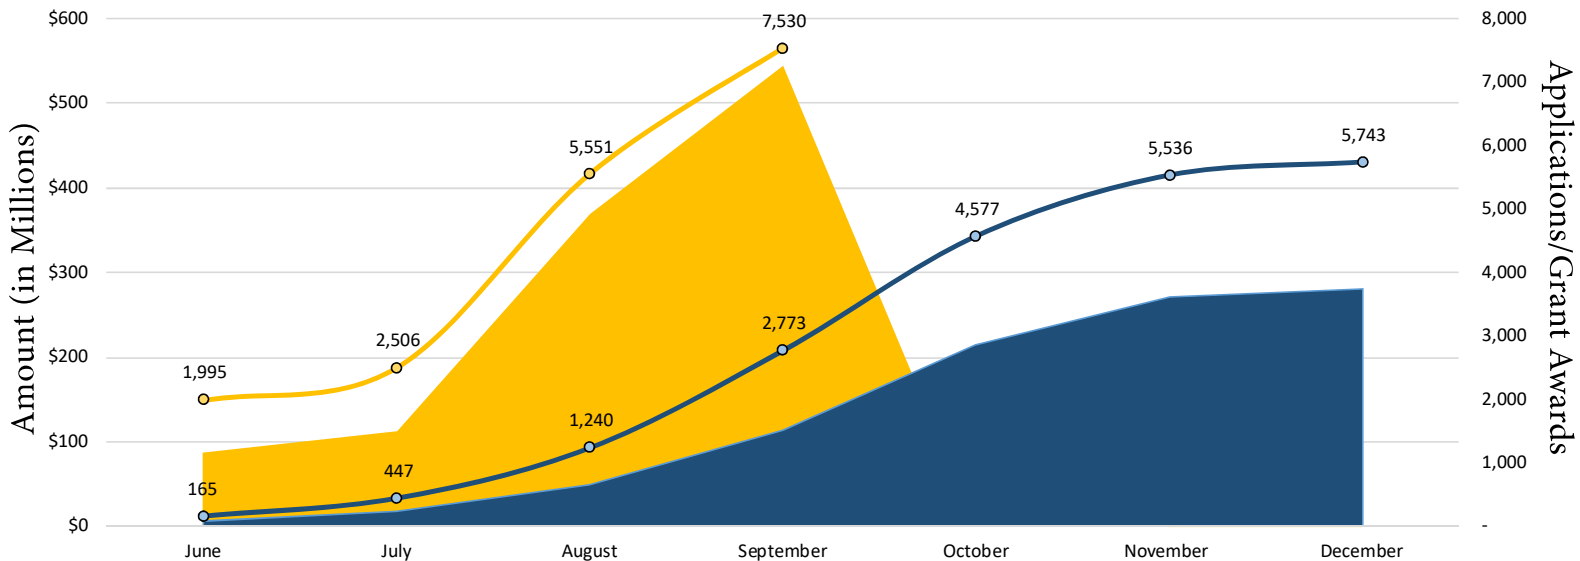

The distribution rate fell far short of expectations.

When requesting program authorization, the governor’s Office of Management and Budget explained that AIDEA would hire a third-party processor to rapidly review applications, distribute funding, and provide the necessary reporting. It was estimated that a processor would be able to verify applications and disburse funding at a rate of $150 million per month.

Actual disbursements fell far short of expectations. During the program’s first month, the program operator disbursed only $6.3 million. This level generally increased each successive month; however, increases were far below the rate originally envisioned. A total of $11.6 million was disbursed the second month, $30.5 million the third month, $64 million the fourth month, $102.7 million the fifth month, $55.7 million the sixth month, and $10.2 million the seventh month. The chart in Exhibit 6 shows the cumulative grant funds disbursed compared to the amounts requested and the applications approved compared to the applications received. Most of the available funds were disbursed by the end of December 2020.

Exhibit 6

Program Applications Received Compared to Grants Disbursed
As of the End of Each Month From January Through December 2020

Applications were not treated consistently in regard to position in the processing queue.

DCCED intended applications to be processed in order of the date received. It quickly became apparent that processing was not simple or routine because many applicants did not comply with guidelines. In line with the program’s overall goal of providing relief, the program operator, CU1, directed its staff to work with applicants to resolve application deficiencies. This “customer service” approach to processing applications caused delays and consumed more resources than expected, resulting in a slow processing rate.

To help address delays, the DCCED commissioner amended processing guidelines July 23, 2020, in part, to limit the time spent helping applicants fix all incomplete applications. Rather than helping fix all applications, the operator was required to notify applicants to reapply once the deficiencies were resolved, thereby losing priority in the processing queue. JEDC was given the same guidance once it began processing applications.

Auditors found that, in many instances, program operators continued to work with applicants to resolve deficiencies after the new guidance was issued; however, assistance was not consistently offered. Some applicants were directed to correct a deficiency and submit a corrected application, thereby losing their place in the queue, while some operator staff continued to work with applicants to make corrections, thereby allowing applicants to retain their place in the queue.

Application backlog led to inequitable treatment once eligibility expanded.

Eligibility was significantly expanded August 6, 2020, and again August 31, 2020. On August 6th there were approximately 2,059 in-process applications and on August 27th, the date the second expansion was announced, there were approximately 3,292 in-process applications.

At the time eligibility expanded on August 6th, it was common knowledge that applications were routinely incomplete or inaccurate. At that point in time, applications could have been sitting in the processing queue for up to two months due to processing delays. The commissioner’s

Review found inconsistencies in how grants were processed.

July 23rd memo directed program operators to reject incomplete applications, with applicants losing their place in the processing queue. Although businesses could reapply, once eligibility expanded a risk existed that funding would no longer be available. At a minimum, this created a perception that processing delays penalized eligible businesses. Had the grant review process been timely, deficient applications could have been resubmitted and processed before eligibility was expanded and funding became unavailable.

Auditors' review of 155 grant applications found several requirements were inconsistently considered and/or enforced by program operators. Some of the inconsistencies were the result of DCCED commissioner directives designed to speed up the approval process, some were the result of appeal decisions, while others were rooted in different interpretations by operators or between staff of the same operator. Inconsistencies included the following:

Certain grant awards exceeded amounts requested. Testing a sample of 155 grants found instances where applicants were awarded more than the amount requested as a result of discussions between processing staff and applicants. For 12 grants,² applicants were awarded funding for future expenses, even though the initial applications did not request the funding. For four additional grants, processing staff added 25 percent to the requested amount, even though future expenses had already been requested. Auditors were told that discrepancies were most likely the result of verbal discussions between the processing staff and applicants; however, the verbal discussions were not always documented in the grant files.

Licensure requirements that demonstrate a business was active were not equitably applied. Eligibility was restricted to businesses licensed as of March 11, 2020, the date of the public health emergency disaster declaration. Unlicensed businesses that applied for the program were denied. In some instances, the license requirement was appealed and the appeal committee³ found that unlicensed businesses were eligible if it could be shown that a business was an ongoing operation in Alaska and active as of March 11, 2020. Auditors noted that no effort was made to identify businesses that were denied for lack of a business license that did not appeal, to ensure the decision was applied fairly to all applicants. Further, the eligibility criteria was never altered after the appeal decisions were made and eligibility criteria continued to list “licensed businesses in Alaska as of March 11, 2020,” as a requirement.

Grants processed before July 23, 2020, were subject to more rigorous review. Applications reviewed and approved prior to the DCCED commissioner’s revised processing guidance were more likely to be rejected in part or in whole. Through July 23, 2020, program operators verified that an applicant business was adversely impacted by the pandemic and that the expenses claimed were eligible for reimbursement by verifying supporting documentation, such as invoices and payroll records. The verification process changed July 23, 2020, when the DCCED commissioner directed program operators to rely solely on an applicant’s certification that 1) an applicant business had been economically injured due to the pandemic, and 2) the schedule of expenses represented emergency expenses. The operator was also directed to rely on an applicant’s certification as support for the eligibility of individual expenses under $2,500 and only verify support for individual expenses that equaled or exceeded $2,500.

³ Initially, the appeal committee consisted of the DCCED deputy commissioner, Division of Economic Development (DED) division director, and DED business development officer. Midway through the program, membership of the committee changed to include the deputy commissioner, special assistant to the commissioner, and DED development assistant. Membership changed again toward the end of the program to include only the deputy commissioner and DED development assistant.

Commercial fishermen applicants were not required to complete standard certifications. Commercial fishermen applicants were not required to certify compliance with program requirements to the same degree as applicants from other industries. Auditors reviewed 40 grants to commercial fishermen and noted that 36 (90 percent) did not complete the certification statements located at the end of the application. The statements included acknowledgments regarding eligibility requirements, certification that funds will only be used for eligible expenses, and acknowledgment that a program operator may share financial information with the State of Alaska. Further, there were two additional certification statements specific to commercial fishing applicants that were not routinely completed. According to DCCED management, the effect of the missing certifications was mitigated by signed grant agreements, which included several assurances. Auditors confirmed that several certifications were also part of the grant agreement; however, the commercial fishing certifications attesting to eligibility requirements specific to commercial fishing were not duplicated as part of the grant agreement.

Certain applicants were required to open CU1 accounts in order to receive funding. Most applicants processed by CU1 were required to open a business account to receive funds; applicants processed by AIDEA, DCCED, or JEDC were not subject to the requirement. The procedures associated with opening an account delayed the disbursement process and took resources away from performing application reviews, creating a bottleneck in the approval and payment process. CU1 allocated additional staff and hired temporary employees to address the bottleneck, but those actions were not successful. By August 13, 2020, there were over 600 accounts that needed to be opened, of which approximately 280 were associated with approved applications pending disbursement. To help alleviate the bottleneck, CU1 decided to stop requiring member accounts effective August 18, 2020. From that date cashier checks were issued to payees using temporary nonmember accounts.

Results of testing found a high rate of unallowable grant awards.

The audit evaluated whether applicants were awarded funding in accordance with DCCED’s program eligibility requirements by testing a sample of 155 grants⁴ totaling $9.3 million. Testing included reviewing grant related expense records, recalculating grant amounts, and confirming various eligibility requirements. Auditors found at least one error for 61 of 155 grants (39 percent).⁵ A summary of testing, including a description of the errors, is listed in Exhibit 7. In many instances, grants tested had more than one error.

 * A grant may have more than one error.

As shown in Exhibit 7, auditors found a variety of errors when reviewing the 155 grants. (See Recommendation 1) In some cases the grant processor made an error when calculating the grant amount, or auditors could not determine how an award was calculated based on available evidence and no explanation could be provided. In some cases an applicant requested payment for expenses that were not allowable, such as property taxes and insurance, or expenses were not incurred during the allowable timeframe. Further, auditors found instances that expenses were claimed more than once or were unsupported. Testing also found three applicants that received duplicate grants due to processing errors and one business applicant that inappropriately received a grant using receipts related to a different business that did not have a license. Three additional applicants were found to have been awarded grants when support showed the applicant did not meet the minimum threshold of $5,000. In total, unallowable grant payments were approximately $1.2 million or 13 percent of the amount tested.

Of the 155 grants tested, 40 were for commercial fishermen that became eligible August 6, 2020. Eligibility requirements were unique for this industry and are listed in Exhibit 8. Of the 40 grants tested, auditors found 11 (or 27 percent) improperly received grants. Of the $1.2 million in unallowable grant payments summarized above, ineligible grants related to commercial fishermen totaled approximately $805,000.

Commercial Fisherman Eligibility Requirements

Commercial fishermen impacted by coronavirus disease 2019 (COVID-19) who held and fished a limited entry permit or interim use permit issued by the Commercial Fisheries Entry Commission and meet the following criteria:

- Fishermen who held a limited entry permit or interim use permit in 2019 and 2020, including an embossed gear card, and participated in an open fishery that produced income in 2019.
- Exception: Cardholders who purchased a limited entry permit for the first time in 2020 must have been a crew member in 2019 that actively participated in an open fishery in Alaska to be eligible.
- Exception: Cardholders who emergency transferred their permit in 2019, and are actively fishing in 2020 are eligible.
- Exception: The temporary permit holders who held limited entry permit(s) by emergency transfer are eligible.
- Fishermen who engage primarily in Alaskan fisheries.
- Fishermen whose primary business is commercial fishing.
- Fishermen with, on average, 50 or fewer full-time equivalent employees.
- Fishermen that received a total of $5,000 or less from U.S. SBA PPP or EIDL (this requirement was later removed).

The errors included:

- One commercial fisherman did not meet eligibility requirements because the applicant did not harvest fish as required.
- One commercial fisherman applied twice using the same receipts and received two grants (auditors noted that the applications were processed by different program operators).
- Nine commercial fishermen inappropriately received more than one grant for harvesting fish.

Auditors found that it is common for commercial fishermen to form partnerships or other types of business structures for the purpose of harvesting fish. For several of the noted errors above, commercial fishermen applied for a grant award under the eligibility criteria in Exhibit 8 and applied for a separate grant as a business set up to harvest fish. This practice conflicted with program requirements. Per program guidance, “each commercial fisherman can only qualify for one grant, regardless of the amount of permits they hold. Eligible expenses from all fisheries a fisherman engages in will qualify with a limit of $100,000”.

Interpretation of this guidance varied within DCCED management. Auditors were told that commercial fishermen were only eligible for one grant for harvesting fish, regardless of whether the fishermen held multiple permits or organized as a commercial fish harvesting business. However, auditors were also told by other members of DCCED management that it was permissible to be awarded more than one grant for harvesting fish.⁶

Program design increased risk of unallowable grants and post-payment controls were ineffective.

The Alaska CARES Act Small Business Relief Program provided economic relief by funding emergency related business expenses referred to as “eligible expenses.” Eligible expenses were defined as the specific expense a business had incurred at the time an application was submitted, such as rent, payroll, and the purchase of equipment, as well as expenses that would be incurred by a business up to eight weeks after the application date to restaff or reopen. By considering future expenses “eligible,” the program was designed to advance funds to grantees to be expended in the future. Of the 155 grants tested as part of this audit, 79 applicants (or 51 percent) requested funds for future expenses.

Although DCCED communicated to grantees that “Businesses will be liable for any misuse of funds and the grants are subject to audit,” there was no effective means of monitoring grant funds paid in advance to ensure funds were used for eligible expenses. Consequently, there was a risk that misuse of grant funds would go undetected.

Another concern with program design was the potential for claiming COVID-19 related expenses for multiple economic relief programs (also referred to as double-dipping), thereby receiving financial assistance in excess of related costs. There were multiple municipal and federal programs offering economic assistance, including the federal PPP. Since staff in charge of processing applications did not have the ability to check an applicant’s participation in other programs, there was no way to verify an applicant was not claiming costs for more than one program. The audit identified individuals associated with 83 of the 155 grants applications tested also received PPP or EIDL funds. Twelve of the 83 grantees did not report participation in the federal programs on the application. Further, 37 grants lacked documentation to demonstrate the expenses claimed for a federal program were properly excluded from DCCED’s Small Business Relief Program.

The main post-payment monitoring control was an independent review of grantee support. AIDEA procured the services of an accounting firm to review accounting records and expense support for a sample of 259 grantees (estimated to be 5 percent of total grants) to ensure compliance with requirements. However, the accounting firm was unable to accomplish its objective due to an inadequate timeline and a lack of effective communication.

The accounting firm was provided a list of grantees on November 28, 2020, and required to complete the audits by December 24, 2020. The accounting firm contacted the grantees and requested documentation be uploaded to a secure portal within four to seven days. Many grantees were not cooperative and the firm was unable to complete its review for 67 percent of the sample. According to the firm, grantees did not participate in the audits for a variety of reasons, including:

- the turnaround time was too quick;
- did not want to provide sensitive information to a third party and felt it was a scam;
- had already provided the documentation to the State and refused to provide it again; and
- did not understand the responsibility for documenting how funds were spent.

The firm was restricted in its ability to follow up non-responses because its contract with AIDEA required work to be completed by December 24th in order to comply with federal law that required all program related activity/expenses to be incurred by December 31, 2020. The federal deadline was extended by one year on December 27, 2020, yet AIDEA's agreement with the firm was not amended to allow more time to gain assurance that grants were awarded for allowable costs and activities.

Additionally, the audit noted that few investigations regarding potential fraud and abuse were performed. As of March 2021, only one grantee was subject to an investigation for potential fraud.

AIDEA staff generally followed procurement regulations; however, the procurement process discouraged potential bidders and did not meet expectations.

AIDEA reported three grantees had returned a portion or all of the grant funds and another grantee was in negotiations with the department over a disputed amount.

When considered together, DCCED's controls over monitoring the allowability of grant awards were materially deficient. Given the lack of controls and the results of testing 155 grants as part of the audit, there is a high risk that a significant amount of unallowable grant awards went undetected.

There were multiple procurements related to the Small Business Relief Program, all of which were carried out by AIDEA. AIDEA procured two program operators to process grant applications and distribute funding. It also procured temporary personnel to help the agency process grants. The procurement for the program operators was considered a large procurement and the procurement for temporary personnel was considered a small procurement. AIDEA's regulations, 3 AAC 100, define the rules for large and small procurements.

The audit found AIDEA followed its regulations except for the following deficiencies (see Recommendation 2):

- Six of the ten RFP addendums were not public noticed on Alaska's Online Public Notices website, including the solicitation for the second program operator. AIDEA management stated that, although notices were not posted on the Online Public Notices website, notices were posted on AIDEA's website and emails were sent to a list of potential bidders.
- The program operator RFP required proof of insurance. The audit found the proof of insurance notice was not signed for one program operator and not obtained for the other.
- Adequate documentation was not maintained for the temporary personnel procurements. Further, suspension and debarment clauses were not included in the terms and conditions of the agreement and there was no evidence AIDEA staff verified the vendor met the federal suspension and debarment requirements. The request for quotation documents did not clearly state how the vendor would be selected when more than one service and rate was included in the quote and no written record was maintained to show why the vendor was selected. Additionally, there was no documentation to show all vendors that submitted a quote were notified of the award.

The solicitation period for the program operator procurement was reduced from the standard 21 days to seven days due to the public health emergency and the cost evaluation factor was reduced from 40 percent to 25 percent. Both of these actions were accompanied by a written justification and in compliance with the regulations. The initial RFP issued April 18, 2020, was for a loan program and targeted financial institutions—it resulted in one bidder. However, before an agreement was signed, it was determined that the program could not take the form of a loan program and was redesigned as a grant program. Rather than terminate the procurement and resolicit with a new scope of services, AIDEA worked with the financial institution, CU1, and came to an agreement on administering a grant program. This action was done in consultation with the Department of Law, which concluded the services provided under a grant program were materially the same as those described in the RFP.

The audit concluded that potential bidders for a loan program were significantly different than potential bidders for a grant program; however, as soon as CU1 began accepting applications, the procurement was reopened and amended to continue soliciting for another program operator. The second solicitation closed after nine days and two bids were received; both bids were rejected by AIDEA. The rejection letters referred to regulation 100.180(3), which states “the solicitation did not provide for consideration of all factors of significance to the authority.” This action was taken in response to Department of Law guidance. Additional amendments were then issued that extended the due date, changed evaluation factors, changed terms of the RFP, and provided for pre-bid meetings to discuss changes. In total, 10 amendments were issued which had the effect of discouraging interest in the procurement. The two vendors that bid in mid-June did not rebid once the procurement was extended.

At the program's onset, DCCED expected to hire a program operator to disburse $150 million a month, which would result in distributing all funding within two months. This expectation was not met. In actuality, it took three and a half months to finish procurement and much longer to process the applications and distribute funding. Some of the procurement shortcomings, such as program design, were within AIDEA and DCCED's control, while others, such as court delays, were not. More detail regarding procurement is included in the Background Information section of this report.

No evidence of a conflict of interest was identified regarding grant awards made to AIDEA employees, board members, DCCED employees, or program operator employees.

An objective of the audit was to determine whether the award of Small Business Relief grants to members of State boards and commissions and other individuals created conflicts of interest. The audit defined "conflict of interests" as a situation in which a person personally benefits from actions or decisions made in carrying out official duties. The laws designed to prevent conflicts of interest are codified in the Alaska Executive Branch Ethics Act (AS 39.52).

Per AS 39.52.150(a),

A public officer, or an immediate family member, may not attempt to acquire, receive, apply for, be a party to, or have a personal or financial interest in a state grant, contract, lease, or loan if the public officer may take or withhold official action that affects the award, execution, or administration of the state grant, contract, lease, or loan.

Further, AS 30.52.150(b) states

The [above] prohibition does not apply to a state grant, contract, or lease competitively solicited unless the officer

- (1) is employed by the administrative unit awarding the grant, contract, or lease or is employed by the administrative unit for which the grant, contract, or lease is let; or*
- (2) takes official action with respect to the award, execution, or administration of the grant, contract, or lease.*

Additionally, AS 39.52.110(b) states there is no ethical impropriety if a public officer's personal or financial interest in a matter is insignificant, or of a type that is possessed generally by the public or large class of persons to which the public officer belongs, or if the public officer's action or influence would have insignificant or conjectural effect on the matter.

DCCED management worked with Department of Law staff to determine whether State public officers and employees, including AIDEA board members, could apply for the Small Business Relief Program grants without violating the Ethics Act. The Department of Law advised that public officers may apply without violating the Ethics Act as long as safeguards were in place. As a safeguard, State employees and State board members applying for grants were required to complete ethics disclosure forms, including disclosures related to family members. Further, to prevent undue influence, grant applications for those individuals were required to be processed by a program operator outside the "work" agency. For example, grant applications for an AIDEA employee or board member were required to be processed by either CU1 or JEDC.

The audit identified 11 AIDEA employees, DCCED employees,⁷ or AIDEA board members filed forms to disclose a person or family member applied for a Small Business Relief grant. Nine received grants for 11 businesses. Auditors determined the applicants met eligibility requirements and the applications were processed by a program operator outside the work agency. Thirteen grants were awarded to CU1 or JEDC employees and auditors verified the grants were processed by a program operator outside the respective work agencies.

FINDINGS AND RECOMMENDATIONS

Recommendation No. 1:

Department of Commerce, Community, and Economic Development's (DCCED) commissioner should work toward recovering the unallowable grant payments identified in this audit.

As part of the audit, auditors found $1.2 million of unallowable grant awards due to inadequate supporting documentation and a variety of errors. In some cases the grant processor miscalculated the grant amount or auditors could not determine how an award was calculated based on available evidence and no explanation could be provided. In some cases an applicant requested payment for expenses that were not allowable, such as property taxes and insurance, or expenses that were not incurred during the allowable timeframe. Further, auditors found instances that expenses were claimed more than once or were unsupported. The audit also identified several instances where commercial fishermen received more than one grant for harvesting fish.

Per U.S. Treasury guidance for the Coronavirus Aid, Relief, and Economic Security (CARES) Relief Fund Program published in Federal Register, Volume 86, Number 10, dated January 15, 2021, the CARES Act provides, in part, that payments from the Fund may only be used to cover costs that are necessary expenditures incurred due to the public health emergency response to coronavirus disease 2019 (COVID-19) and were incurred during the period that begins on March 1, 2020, and ends on December 31, 2021.

The errors were the result of a complex application process and the manual evaluation and calculation of allowable expenditures. Changing eligibility requirements, the lack of a review process, and pressures to get payments out quickly also increased the risk of processing errors. The amounts awarded in error reduced the monies available for other eligible applicants.

We recommend DCCED's commissioner take steps to recover Alaska CARES Act Small Business Relief Program funds that were awarded for ineligible expenses or ineligible applicants as identified by the audit. The DCCED commissioner should also consult with the federal oversight agency regarding return of funds expended for unallowable grants.

Recommendation No. 2: The audit identified that AIDEA’s Small Business Relief Program procurement processes were deficient due to the following:

Alaska Industrial Development and Export Authority’s (AIDEA) executive director should ensure the chief procurement officer follows procurement procedures and adequate documentation is maintained.

- Six of the 10 addendums for the program operator request for proposal (RFP) were not public noticed on Alaska’s Online Public Notices website.
- Proof of insurance was not consistently required for the program operators.
- Suspension and debarment clauses were not included in the terms and conditions of the temporary personnel contract agreement and there was no evidence the vendor was checked for the federal suspension and debarment requirements.
- The request for quotation documents for the temporary personnel vendor did not clearly state how the vendor would be selected when more than one service and rate was included in the quote and no written record was maintained to show why the vendor was selected.
- No documentation was maintained to show the temporary personnel vendors were notified of the award.

Although AIDEA had established procurement procedures to effectively guide the procurement process, according to AIDEA management the procedures were not followed due to the challenging work environment created by the COVID-19 pandemic, which necessitated a combination of virtual and on-site work to meet enacted State protocols and safety precautions. Auditors also noted that procurement checklists designed to ensure compliance with procurement laws were not utilized.

Per the State procurement code, AIDEA is to follow its procurement regulations that are codified in 3 AAC 100. AIDEA’s regulations address large and small procurements and include requirements for public notices and award documentation. The RFP terms and conditions also list additional requirements, such as proof of insurance. Federal awards are subject to the suspension and debarment federal regulations, 2 CFR Part 180.

State procurement laws are designed to provide a fair, competitive, and open procurement process. By not complying with these laws, the State may not have benefited from the lowest rates that result from a competitive bidding process. Additionally, not following procedures may lead to preferential treatment or bias.

We recommend AIDEA's executive director ensure the chief procurement officer follows procurement procedures, including completing procurement checklists, and that adequate documentation is maintained.

OBJECTIVES, SCOPE, AND METHODOLOGY

In accordance with Title 24 of the Alaska Statutes and a special request by the Legislative Budget and Audit Committee, we have conducted a performance audit of the Department of Commerce, Community, and Economic Development (DCCED), Alaska Coronavirus Aid, Relief, and Economic Security (CARES) Act Small Business Relief Program.

Objectives

The objectives were to:

- Determine whether eligible businesses were fairly treated.
- Determine whether the process for procuring program operators complied with procurement laws.
- Evaluate whether grants awarded to members of State boards and commissions and other individuals created conflicts of interest.
- Provide a listing of Small Business Relief Program grants by business name, location, and disbursed amount.

Scope

The audit examined the Alaska CARES Act Small Business Relief Program from March 2020 through February 2022. The audit evaluated the Alaska Industrial Development and Export Authority's (AIDEA) process for procuring program operators and temporary personnel from April 2020 through December 2020. The audit reported grant totals and program expenditures from June 1, 2020, through August 30, 2021.

Methodology

To address the objectives, auditors:

- Gained an understanding of the eligibility and processing requirements for the Alaska CARES Small Business Relief Program by reviewing the following documents:

- ◆ U.S. Treasury guidance for the CARES Relief Fund Program published in Federal Register, Volume 86, Number 10, dated January 15, 2021.
 - ◆ Alaska House Bill 313, May 2020; House Finance Committee meeting minutes, June 2020; and House Labor and Commerce Committee meeting minutes, July 2020.
 - ◆ Legislative Budget and Audit Committee meeting minutes from May 2020 through December 2020 and revised program legislative documents.
 - ◆ Informational Sheets and Checklists posted on the DCCED website from May 2020 through December 2020.
 - ◆ DCCED Reimbursable Service Agreement with AIDEA and Amendments.
 - ◆ Program Operator Agreements and Amendments.
 - ◆ DCCED Commissioner Updated Processing Guidelines for the Alaska CARES Grant Program Memo dated July 23, 2020.
- Conducted interviews and email inquiries with the staff and management of DCCED, AIDEA, Credit Union 1 (CU1) and Juneau Economic Development Council and obtained various documents to gain an understanding and evaluate the procedures for determining eligibility, processing applications, and distributing grant funds.
 - Reviewed AIDEA's statutes, regulations, 2020 annual report, and various other documents to gain an understanding of the agency.
 - Reviewed AIDEA's board meeting minutes from April 2020 through December 2020 to identify relevant information pertaining to the Small Business Relief Program.
 - Reviewed Alaska statutes and regulations (AS 36.30 and 3 AAC 100) to gain an understanding of the procurement laws. Examined AIDEA's procurement documents and contracts to determine compliance with procurement laws. Reviewed the State's Online Public Notices System to verify AIDEA requests for proposal and related addendums were public noticed in compliance with procurement laws. Conducted interviews with AIDEA procurement staff and management to gain an understanding of the procedures and decisions made when procuring program operators and temporary personnel; also inquired with rejected bidders regarding the procurement process.

- Reviewed Alaska Executive Branch Ethics Act (AS 39.52), obtained and evaluated Department of Law correspondence, examined ethics disclosure documents, and identified related grants to assess whether grants to members of State boards and commissions and other individuals created conflicts of interest. The audit defined a “conflict of interests” as a situation in which a person personally benefits from actions or decisions made in carrying out official duties.
- Reviewed articles to identify potential issues pertaining to the Small Business Relief Program.
- As part of planning the audit, inquired with the Office of the Ombudsman, Department of Administration (DOA) Division of Personnel and Labor Relations, United States Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, and the Alaska State Commission for Human Rights to determine if any complaints were filed regarding the Small Business Relief Program.
- Obtained Small Business Relief Program grant data from AIDEA and CU1 to sort, analyze, and evaluate the data and to determine the universe of grants for compliance testing. Also interviewed AIDEA’s information technology staff to gain an understanding of the website portal and the database processes.
- Selected and tested several samples, both random and judgmental, from the 5,754 disbursed grants. The non-statistical random sample consisted of 50 grant disbursements and various judgmental samples consisted of 105 grants. Sample sizes were based on auditors’ judgment and low audit risk. Judgmental selections were based on auditor data analysis, assessment, and judgment. Grants were examined for compliance with eligibility requirements and evaluated to determine if the grants were allowable, which included reviewing grant related expense records and recalculating grant amounts. Testing included reviewing DCCED business and licensing databases to verify reported applicant information and the Commercial Fisheries Entry Commission database to confirm commercial fishing permit grant eligibility requirements for commercial fisherman applicants. Testing also evaluated the grant database completeness and reliability of various data fields. Testing results were not projected to the population.

- Inquired with State of Alaska Department of Fish and Game and Pacific State Marine Fisheries Commission staff to gain an understanding of other potential CARES Act funding for commercial fishermen.
- Inquired with employees from the states of Washington, Oregon, California, Montana, and Idaho about their small business assistance grant programs and verified if any Alaska commercial fishermen grantees with addressees in Washington, Oregon, and Montana also applied and received CARES grants from the respective states. Auditors note California was not able to share the data at a state level and Idaho did not respond to the auditor's inquiry.
- The State's accounting system was used to tie the grant disbursed total to the grant database total, and to reconcile the total funding allocated for the Small Business Relief Program to supporting documents to identify and determine uses of the funds.
- Evaluated AIDEA's agreed-upon procedure reports from outside accounting firms to assess the post-payment work performed.
- Obtained signed acknowledgment letters for select DOA, DCCED, and AIDEA employees, related to their knowledge and representations.
- Inquired with DCCED, AIDEA, and Department of Law staff to determine complaints/cases related to grantees that may have received funds inappropriately or illegally.

Internal controls over procurement of program operators and temporary personnel were assessed to determine if the controls were properly designed and implemented.

Limitations of Grant Data

As part of the random sample of 50 grants, auditors tested various grant database fields to assess reliability of data. There was a 32 percent error rate regarding industry type when comparing the grant database to the applicant’s business license or organization documents. Most of the errors were related to selecting the “Other” category, rather than the more specific industry type category.

APPENDICES

SUMMARY

Appendix A summarizes the Alaska Coronavirus Aid, Relief, and Economic Security (CARES) Act Small Business Relief Program eligibility criteria and revisions. Acronyms are defined on page iv.

Appendix B summarizes Alaska CARES Act Small Business Relief Program grants disbursed by industry. The audit determined that industry codes within the Alaska Industrial Development and Export Authority's (AIDEA) database were not always accurate. Testing a random sample of grants identified a 32 percent error rate with the industry code. Most of the errors involved selecting the general "other" category when a more specific industry was appropriate.

Appendix C provides a list of Alaska CARES Act Small Business Relief Program grants by business name. The source of the data is AIDEA's Small Business Relief grant database. The Business Physical Location and Industry fields were adjusted by auditors to remove formatting inconsistencies. No changes were made to the other fields.

RE: Confidential preliminary audit report on the Department of Commerce, Community and Economic Development (DCCED), Alaska Coronavirus Aid, Relief, and Economic Security Act, Small Business Relief Program, May 9, 2022

Dear Ms. Curtis,

Thank you for the opportunity to comment on the confidential preliminary audit report regarding the Alaska Coronavirus Aid, Relief, and Economic Security (CARES) Act Small Business Relief Program. The department concurs with the conclusions identified in the report and provides the following responses to the recommendations indicated below:

Recommendation 1:

DCCED's commissioner should work toward recovering the unallowable grant payments identified in this audit.

DCCED has been in contact with the Department of Law about the legality of recovering these funds and has requested an opinion on how DCCED should proceed. The department will follow any advice and suggestions provided by the Department of Law on this matter.

Recommendation 2:

AIDEA's executive director and chief procurement officer should follow procurement procedures and ensure documentation is maintained.

DCCED will defer to AIDEA for any responsive comments on this item.

Again, thank you for the opportunity to provide input on this matter. Should you have any questions about the contents of this letter, please do not hesitate to contact me.

Sincerely,

Subject: DCCED AK CARES Small Business Relief Program, AIDEA Confidential
Preliminary Audit Response

Dear Ms. Curtis:

Thank you for the opportunity to respond to your letter dated July 14, 2022 with enclosed report dated May 9, 2022 regarding the Department of Commerce, Community, and Economic Development (DCCED), Alaska Coronavirus Aid, Relief, and Economic Security (CARES) Act Small Business Relief Program.

As requested, our response focuses on the Report Conclusions as well as the Findings and Recommendations as they specifically relate to the Alaska Industrial Development and Export Authority (AIDEA).

Report Conclusions:

The FY21 Preliminary Audit Report states “the audit concluded that the Small Business Relief Program disbursed approximately $282 million of CARES Act funds through the issuance of 5,754 grants; however, the distribution rate of grant funds fell far short of expectations. The State expected to distribute $150 million per month, yet only $18 million was distributed by the end of the program's second month. Despite a federal extension to December 2021, authorization for the program lapsed at the end of June 30, 2021, at which point $823,000 of funds were still available and 669 grant applications were unprocessed.

The program's initial eligibility criteria was widely criticized as being too restrictive. Pressure to reach a larger number of Alaskan businesses and fully utilize available funding led DCCED's commissioner to expand eligibility multiple times. The most significant modifications expanded eligibility to include commercial fishermen, allowed applicants to apply for both the Small Business Relief Program and federal CARES Act loan programs, and opened the program to businesses that served as secondary sources of income.

The audit found the grant application processing time was much slower than expected, partly due to the program design and partly due to the rate applications were deemed incomplete or inaccurate. Several program requirements were inconsistently considered and/ or enforced by program operators. Some of the inconsistencies were the result of DCCED commissioner directives designed to speed up the approval process, some were the result of appeal decisions that were not applied to all applicants, while others were rooted in different interpretations by operators or between staff of the same operator.”

Response:

As with the unprecedented nature of the economic crisis impacting Alaska due to the COVID-19 global health emergency, the creation and implementation of the AK CARES Small Business Relief Program represented an unprecedented call to-action by the Office of the Governor and the Legislature for our small businesses. In light of the concerns on availability of federal funding programs to address the complex, seasonally impacted, funding needs of Alaska’s small businesses, this new program required an unprecedented level of coordination and overall was administered with a reasonable standard of care, as expeditiously as possible within the six-month period through December 2020.

It is important to define the context in which this program was developed and implemented, specifically in relation to the release of federal program guidelines, like the Paycheck Protection Program (PPP), as well numerous updates to the funding source guidelines through the Cares Act. Many of the decisions and processes that were implemented during the course of the program were responsive to progressive clarifications being provided on the federal programs and funding source as all parties dealt with the continued impacts of the health emergency – including AIDEA, DCCED, the program operators and, most importantly, the grant applicants.

With this in mind, we provide the following comments to the timeline, the collective call to-action, leading to establishment of the AK CARES Program:

- March 11, 2020: Governor Dunleavy declares a Public Health Disaster Emergency under AS 26.23.020;
- March 13, 2020: Federal Emergency Declaration issued by President Trump;
- March 20, 2020: AIDEA staff initiates program development and regulations for the Emergency Loan and Guaranty Program (EL&GP);
- March 27, 2020: Congress passes the federal act known as the Coronavirus Aid, Relief, and Economic Security Act (CARES Act) which included allocations for state funding ($1.25 billion to Alaska), as well as SBA’s Paycheck Protection Program (PPP) and other emergency programs;
- March 29, 2020: Alaska Legislature recessed;
- April 8, 2020: Governor Dunleavy issues a Disaster Order under AS 26.23.020(g)(2) for AIDEA to use available resources as necessary to address the financial hardship to Alaska’s small businesses;
- April 9, 2020: AIDEA Board approves Resolution G20-13 establishing the EL&GP and adopts emergency regulations 3 AAC 104.010-3 AAC 104.900;
- April 15, 2020: SBA issues Interim Final Rule for applications under the PPP through June 30, 2020 (i.e. First Round);

- April 18, 2020: AIDEA RFP #20067 submitted to SOA Online Public Notice and AIDEA's Procurement websites;
- April 16, 2020: SBA PPP funding is fully committed;
- April 22, 2020: US Treasury issues initial guidance on CARES Act;
- May 4, 2020: US Treasury issues initial Frequently Asked Questions document on CARES Act;
- May 6, 2020: Notice of Intent to Award under RFP #20067 issued to Credit Union 1 as a Program Operator;
- May 11, 2020: RPL #08-2020-0251 is submitted and approved by LB&A Committee for allocation of $290 million of $1.25 billion state receipts (Coronavirus Relief Fund (CRF)) under the CARES Act to DCCED for Alaska small business relief (AK CARES program);
- May 20, 2020: AIDEA Board approves Resolution G20-18 in support of the AK CARES program.

The AK CARES Small Business Relief Program ("AK CARES") was envisioned as a loan and guaranty program which would bridge the gap for Alaska's small businesses in obtaining funding under SBA's PPP and emergency programs to help save small Alaskan businesses, many of which were at imminent risk of insolvency. This quickly changed when the SBA PPP program fully committed its initial funding on April 16, 2020. There were significant concerns by all stakeholders that many of Alaska's small businesses would not have access to the federal emergency programs in addition to concerns that those programs did not go far enough in meeting the needs of Alaska's small businesses. The SBA's PPP was focused on reimbursing personnel expenses which was viewed to benefit larger companies able to retain a year-round workforce. Meanwhile, the small businesses within Alaska's communities were predominately seasonal operations, building up inventories or mobilizing and now impacted by a complete decline of cruise-ship traffic or demand for their services at the onset of the health crisis.

Program governance was maintained through a Memorandum of Agreement (MOA) executed between DCCED and AIDEA, incorporating the program's Operating Procedures which were also attached to the contracts with the program operators. The RPL recognized that the program had been revised based on recently released federal guidance (the "Guidance") which itself was subject to future changes (and was many times). The eligibility requirements were amended from time to time by DCCED based upon on-going changes or clarifications in the Guidance from the federal government and through consultations with important stakeholders. The amendments expanded the availability of CRF funds to assist more of Alaska's small businesses as more information became known on the access and funding from the federal programs.

We acknowledge that the processing rate for applications was slower than originally anticipated within the Revised Program-Legislative (RPL). As with Alaska's small businesses, no two grant application packages were the same. It was a new program and new procedures for every applicant. Additionally, these applicant businesses were impacted on several levels by the COVID-19 health emergency at the time of application and through processing. In order to maintain a reasonable standard of care and increase the distribution rate during this unprecedented impact to Alaska's economy, processing staff were empowered and expected to utilize their professional judgement in processing grant applications. This was implemented through the addition of the Juneau Economic Development Council as a program operator, DCCED staff, and temporary personnel hired by AIDEA to the Credit Union 1 staff already under agreement as program operator. The processing rate was significantly enhanced with the implementation of AIDEA's on-line application portal for the program. Overall, we do believe that the grant applications were processed as expeditiously as possible given the impacts of the health emergency and the complexity of the program guidelines.

In regard to the extended procurement timeline of three and a half months (pg. 3), AIDEA acknowledges that securing program operators over the full-course of the program took time, as AIDEA worked with legal counsel to build consensus among governmental stakeholders amidst quickly shifting program requirements. The procurement was further protracted by challenges including requested delays as further changes were being announced, receipt of multiple non-confirming responses that contained conditions precedent in contravention of the RPL, as well as complaints filed in Superior Court. The overall circumstances were unprecedented and create a unique event in which our staff sought to advance the procurement as proactively as possible.

We appreciate the report's conclusion that AIDEA generally followed its procurement regulations. We recognize and concur with the report's observations that the procurement process was not optimal. Numerous amendments were required over the course of the extended procurement as changes were implemented in the program guidelines. It was important to AIDEA that the potential bidders had full information as it was available.

However, AIDEA disagrees with the report's conclusion that the procurement process discouraged potential bidders. Our observation is that the factors cited in the report were not the principal reason(s) discouraging interest in the procurement. At the time, financial institution interest was significantly diminished due to the following factors:

1. SBA's PPP was continuing in phases,
2. Operational capacity was already significantly limited at the financial institutions participating in the federal programs, and
3. The federal programs had established compensation expectations that were significantly higher than those of AK CARES.

Report Recommendations:

AIDEA agrees with Recommendation 2:

"AIDEA's executive director and chief procurement officer should follow procurement procedures and ensure documentation is maintained."

AIDEA had a distinct need for external resources met through a combination of permanent internal staff as well as temporary contracted staff utilized to carry out the mission. Like thousands of businesses across the state, the AIDEA work environment was not immune to the COVID-19 pandemic. However rather than a decrease in activity, AIDEA experienced a substantial workload increase directly associated with administering the DCCED-directed small business grant program. To maintain operations, AIDEA necessitated a combination of virtual and on-site work to meet safety precautions. Procurement staff were among those working off site in a telework environment.

While the AK CARES procurement represents a unique occurrence, we recognize the areas of improvement outlined in your letter. Please know that, subsequent to the end of the AK CARES program in December 2020, AIDEA has restructured its procurement staff which previously served as a shared service between the Alaska Energy Authority and AIDEA. AIDEA procurement staff is now specifically focused on compliance with AIDEA procurement regulations with a Chief Procurement Officer reporting directly to AIDEA's Executive Director. This report and its recommendation has been reviewed with AIDEA's procurement staff and procedures have been defined to maintain adequate documentation on procurements.

Closing Remarks:

AIDEA is pleased that the review confirmed AIDEA generally followed procurement regulations, that there was no evidence of a conflict of interest regarding grant awards and that eligible businesses were treated fairly and equitably.

In closing, AIDEA is proud to have played a vital role in administering the AK CARES program with DCCED to distribute substantial and essential benefits to Alaska's small businesses. We are fortunate to be able to look back on the events of 2020 to see that the majority of Alaska's small businesses survived the unprecedented economic impact of the COVID-19 pandemic. Through the authorization of the RPL by the LB&A Committee, the state collectively was able to disburse $282 million to 5,754 Alaska small businesses in need in an inordinately compressed period of time amidst an ever-changing landscape.

Sincerely,

Alan Weitzner

Members of the Legislative Budget
and Audit Committee:

I have reviewed the responses to the audit report from the Department of Commerce, Community, and Economic Development, and the Alaska Industrial Development and Export Authority (AIDEA). Nothing contained in the responses causes me to revise or reconsider the report conclusions and recommendations.

I offer the following comment regarding AIDEA's disagreement on page four of the agency's response. AIDEA stated:

Our observation is that the factors cited in the report were not the principal reasons(s) discouraging interest in the procurement. At the time, financial institution interest was significantly diminished to the following factors:

- 1. SBA's PPP [Small Business Administration's Paycheck Protection Program] was continuing in phases,*
- 2. Operational capacity was already significantly limited at the financial institutions participating in the federal programs, and*
- 3. The federal programs had established compensation expectations that were significantly higher than those of AK CARES.*

Although AIDEA's initial procurement was limited to financial institutions, the universe of potential bidders was expanded by the second of 10 amendments to include agencies that could implement a grant program using a banking partner to disburse funds. AIDEA's response above was limited to financial institutions, which does not consider the larger pool of potential bidders created by amendment 2.

Members of the Legislative Budget
and Audit Committee:

We acknowledge that there were many factors at play that made procurement challenging, however, the audit found that the high number of request for proposal amendments and the extended procurement timeline were significant factors. In summary, we reaffirm the conclusion.
